HUMANITY.

At times the thoughtful mind is aghast at human selfishness. We hear tales of meanness, coarseness and brutality which make us blush for our race. Read the daily papers from time to time, and one is tempted to ask: Are men relapsing into savagery? Is the boasted civilization of the nineteenth century but a thin veneer? Intelligent foreigners criticize the American daily press. They acknowledge the enterprise of journalists, the variety of news spread before readers, the tireless energy and unstinted liberality of publishers, but yet ask if it is profitable to the world to spread the details of every tragedy and crime before the public. Their queries are just, their criticisms sound; still the sad fact remains that there must needs be a fearful amount of brutality and cruelty to furnish alert reporters the matter for their sketches. Murders, suicides, thefts, outrages, and impurity are far too common. But is this all?

An Eastern paper rejoices to answer No. These things are but the foul excrecences of life. Not all men are demons. In quiet homes love presides and domestic endearments sweeten existence. Notwithstanding the eager haste to become rich in our land, there are millions of men of unsullied integrity. Not for their right hand would they defraud their neighbors or betray confidence. There is too a genial sympathy for one's race throbbing in the bosom of myriads and only waiting an occasion to demonstrate its power. Some hearts are apparently stony, but even they are touched by the sight of suffering. The helplessness of the sick, like the prophet's wand, causes the rock to send forth rills. Men feel the kinship of the race. How many stories do we hear of service rendered by stranger hands to the sick traveler on board the cars! The sight of a languishing, dying man, not only checks boisterous mirth or idiot laughter, but prompts the proffer of friendly aid.

And it is not the cultured and refined alone that respond to the promptings of sympathy. It is not gentle women exclusively that ask, What can we do to soothe pain or lighten the load of anxiety? Rough men show that pitying hearts throb in their bosoms. For service at railroad stations men of great physical strength are usually sought to perform heavy work. Too often they are treated by impatient travelers with coarse incivilities. It were not strange if they steeled themselves with a surly indifference to censures and complaints; and where such is the case, one could hardly expect them to feel keenly for others' distress. And yet we have seen such, when a sick and stricken traveler needed to be moved from one train to another, handle the sufferer with as much tenderness as a pitying mother handles her babe. Tears brimmed their eyes and told that a coarse exterior oft covers a gentle heart. May not the pessimist and the misanthrope then alike cease their criticisms? There is a great deal of crime in the world; still the heart of humanity beats strong with sympathy, and Christendom is not drifting into barbarism.

The most profitable newspaper in the world, the London Times, is valued at $25,000,000 and the most valuable in France, the Petit-Journal, earns $300,000 a year net, although a dozen years ago it was insolvent. The London Standard is valued at $10,000,000, the Daily News at $6,000,000, and $5,000,000 would not buy the Telegraph.

It is rumored that if neither John Mackay nor W. S. Hobart will be candidates for Senator, that Wm. Sharon will try his hand again. Hon. Geo. E. Spencer, of Austin, ex Senator from Alabama, is also reported to have the bee in his bonnet.

Charles A. Dana thinks that Senator Ingalls is the freshest, keenest, most original and formidable of all the Republican Senators.

PARTY DISINTEGRATION.

New York Nation.

Two eminent citizens of Connecticut, a Blaine Republican and a Democrat, were recently talking over the political situation. Both are astute politicians and close observers. Said the Democrat, who is an earnest civil-service reformer: "If an important election were to be held in Connecticut to-morrow, 50 per cent. of the Democratic voters would stay away from the polls because of dissatisfaction with the way in which the Cleveland Administration has distributed the offices." Said the Republican, who has been a working politician for years: "At the same election 50 per cent. of the Republican voters would stay away from the polls because they would not be willing to disapprove the course of the Cleveland Administration." "What does it all mean?" asked the Democrat. "It means," replied the Republican, "that the old parties are going to pieces, and I for one am ready for it."

No close observer can doubt that there is a similar condition of affairs in nearly every other State in the Union. The estimate which the Connecticut authorities quoted above give of the dissatisfied in each party strikes us as excessive, but that there is a large number of such voters in both organizations cannot be questioned. The feeling that since the Republicans have had all the offices for a quarter of a century it is no more than fair that the Democrats should have a chance at them now, is very general in the Democratic party. Every Democrat who has been seeking an office and has not got it, is doing his best to aggravate this feeling. He represents the workers of the party—the men whose business it is to get out the sluggish voters on election day. If these workers were to refrain from all exertions at an election because of their personal disappointment, there would undoubtedly be a great falling off in the Democratic vote. We doubt, however, if the loss would amount to one-half of the whole. It is notorious that Democrats are very reluctant to desert their party. They growl all through a campaign, and then vote solidly the party ticket when election day arrives. That many of them are growling now everybody knows, but when it comes to the question of deserting their party because the President of their choice is keeping his pledges and giving the country an honest, non-partisan Administration, we do not believe that more than 10 per cent. of them at most will be equal to the emergency. It is noticeable of all the growling that it is done in private. No important Democratic journal has yet ventured to oppose the President's course, and no Democratic Convention has adopted a platform openly disapproving it. We hazard the prediction that in the campaigns of this Autumn there will not be a Democratic stump speaker who will venture to speak anything but praise of the President. That is the perplexing thing about the Democratic discontent. It must be borne in silence. To formulate it is to show its absolute unworthiness.

On the Republican side the situation is no less interesting. The party is already divided into two sections. Upon one side are the Bourbons, who are determined to cling to the old superstition that the Democratic party is made up mainly of unscrupulous men who are bent upon the ruin of the country. They will not admit that anything good has been done or will be done by the present Administration. They have completely changed ground on the question of civil-service reform. They declared all through last year's campaign that Cleveland would never be able to keep his pledges if elected, and no matter how well disposed he might be, personally, his party would inevitably control him. Now that this prophecy has failed of fulfillment, they turn about and civil-service reform is a humbug anyway, that the offices belong to politics, and that of all Pharisaical and hypocritical pretences ever adopted, that of the present Administration, that it is giving the country non-partisan rule is the most contemptible. Rather than honor and praise the President they are willing to return to the old doctrines of spoils. They have been forced into this position by the growling of the Democrats, which made it useless to assert that the President is not sincerely carrying out his professed reform policy.

But the Bourbon section of the Republican party is dwindling every day, and the other section, which think well of the President and believe in supporting him in every worthy act, is increasing. The steady straightforward, simple, honest, business-like course of the Administration is sapping the life of every Bourbon principal. It cannot be said any longer that the "country is in peril" whenever the Democrats are likely to come into power. That "principle" was the bulwark which saved the Republican party in many a conflict but it is gone forever. It was summed up in the "sectional issue," and how completely that has been buried the solemn exercises of the present week will bear most emphatic testimony. The final words of General Grant upon that subject, together with the spectacle of Northern and Southern soldiers walking together beside his bier, will be sufficient to silence even the Bourbons. As Horace Greeley said of them years ago: "Your attempt to found a great enduring party upon the hatred and wrath necessarily engendered by a bloody civil war, is as though you had founded a colony on an iceberg which somehow drifted into a tropical ocean." That their attempt has failed is clear enough for all men to see. Even Simon Cameron, one of the most devoted of its adherents, sees it, for he has telegraphed to the son of General Grant a hearty commendation of the selection of two ex-Confederate generals for pall-bearers at the General's funeral, adding: "Your father's prayer for peace to his country has been answered, and the last bitterness of the war wiped out forever."

The growling of disappointed Democrats and the bitter denunciations of Bourbon Republicans proceed from the same kind of men in both parties—the men, namely, who love the old methods and do not wish to see them done away with. These men may be able to control one-half of the voters in each of the old parties, but we do not believe it. Sooner or later they will come together in a party of their own, and opposed to them will be the men who approve the course of President Cleveland and are determined to uphold him in it. It is our firm belief that the latter class contains a clear majority of the American people, and that their attachment to old party names is weakened daily.

The growth of Nebraska during the decade between 1870 and 1880 was more rapid than that of any other State in the Union, with the single exception of Colorado; and, considering how much smaller the population of Colorado was than that of Nebraska in 1870, the increase of 267 per cent. in the latter State was quite as remarkable as the 387 per cent. in the former. The census just taken shows that Nebraska still continues to grow at a wonderful pace, almost complete returns indicating a population of nearly 700,000 in 1885, against 452,402 in 1880—a gain of about 50 per cent. in five years.

In the new division of the supervising districts of the Pension Office, which are reduced from twenty to five, the fifth district comprises Nebraska, Kansas, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Idaho, Utah, Arizona, Washington Territory, Oregon, Nevada and California. The Supervisor of this district has not yet been appointed. The Supervisors will all have their headquarters at Washington, and only the special agents will go into the field. It is claimed that by the new system there will be a saving to the Government of about $30,000.

A new schedule of rates to Liverpool, Queenstown, Dublin, London, and other European Ports has been adopted by the California Passenger Association. The net third-class rates to New York will in all cases be added to the emigrant rate from that port to European points. The net rate to New York is, under the recent advance in fares, $73 25, and the rate to Liverpool is $20 additional, or $93 25. The old rate was $85 and the increase is therefore $8 25.

Congressman Henley has received a dispatch from Daniel Manning, Secretary of the Treasury, stating that no additional California appointments would be made until September. The candidates for Surveyor of the Port, Surveyor General, Appraiser, Assistant Appraiser, United States District Attorney and United States Marshal and Registrar of the Land office will have to wait patiently until the President returns from his vacation to Washington next month. In the meantime they will be kept on the ragged edge of suspense.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. feb. 21-sw-1-yr

BREVITIES

Prepare your exhibits for the State Fair.

"Reduction works" are still the watchword of the hour.

Senator Kaiser, of Churchill, was in town yesterday.

Supt. Heriot returned from the Bay yesterday morning.

Judge Balknap came up from the Bay yesterday morning.

Go and hear Bishop Fowler tomorrow morning.

The Tar Bucket Brigade is liable to have some work shortly.

N. D. Mussey, of Wadsworth, has returned from a trip to Auburn.

Alf. Jose will open his new saloon today. Beer 5 cents; soda water 5 cents.

Mrs. Alt's regular soiree to-night at Armory Hall to-night. Admission 50 cents.

R. R. Rickard, the mining man, was a passenger on the east bound train yesterday.

The new compilation of the Nevada statutes will be ready for delivery about the first of November.

A meeting of the Directors of the State Agricultural Society has been called for Tuesday next.

This hot weather is pretty hot, but everybody is becoming accustomed to about ninety degrees.

State Surveyor General Preble and wife returned from the Bay yesterday morning, and continued on to Carson.

Clam chowder, Boston baked beans and other good things at J. J. Becker's Chicago saloon, every day in the week.

Eureka has a new paper, the tri-weekly Standard, published by Rooney & Simpson. It is Democratic in politics.

Frazer & Keating are proving that they know all about running a first-class meat market. Give them a call and be convinced.

Mr. R. S. Osburn, Chief Clerk at the Mint, and his wife, have gone from Carson on a three-day fishing excursion at Woodford's.

The throng daily seen at the Granite saloon shows that people know where to go for a hot soup lunch and a good glass of beer.

C. W. Booten has determined to build a handsome home. Holesworth has the plans ready, and work will soon commence.

A. Skillman, of Eureka, the new Internal Revenue Collector, was a passenger for Virginia yesterday morning. He will relieve Col. Lord to-day.

J. J. Bray is acting conductor at present on the regular express and passenger train between here and Virginia, in place of Joe McCormick, who has gone over to Lake Tahoe, fishing.

Judge Field leaves for Portland, Or., the end of this month, for the purpose of holding Court. The session will last a few days only and at its close he will join Mrs. Field at Newport, R. I. From there he intends to take a short vacation in the mountains in the Eastern States and possibly a trip down the St. Lawrence, before returning to Washington for the October term of the Supreme Court.

The County Line.

County Surveyor Bridges has completed the running of the boundary line between Humboldt and Washoe, on the range line between 23 and 24 as agreed upon. He reports Summit Lake two miles east of the Washoe line, and the Crutcher property in Humboldt county.

Beer is selling at five cents a glass in Reno. No wonder Pawning is happy.—Tuscarora Times Review

Even at postage stamp prices it would take another brewery to satisfy Dennis.

NEVADA MAILS.

The Service Being Cut in All Directions.

There has just been made a very large cut in Nevada mails, by order of Second Assistant Postmaster General Knott. In the annual letting next July, further reductions may be looked for, unless good work is done in the meantime to maintain the service. The following order was made July 27:

Route 45,104. Elko to Bullion. From August 16, 1885, reduce service to once a week.

Route 45,106. Elko to Tuscarora. From August 16, 1885, reduce service to 6 times a week.

Route 45,107. Tuscarora to White Rock. From August 16, 1885, reduce service to twice a week.

Route 45,115. Hamilton to Eberhardt. From August 16, 1885, reduce service to twice a week.

Route 45,120. Belmont to Tybo. From August 16, 1885, reduce service to twice a week.

Route 45,126. Battle Mountain to Lewis. From August 16, 1885, reduce service to 3 times a week.

Route 45,127. Galena to Battle Mountain. From August 16, 1885, reduce service to three times a week.

Route 45,129. Paradise City to Spring City. From August 16, 1885, reduce to three times a week.

Route 45,132. Wadsworth to Stillwater. From August 16, 1885, reduce service to twice a week.

Route 45,139. Fletcher to Wellington. From August 16, 1885, reduce service to twice a week.

Route 45,144. Carson City to Glenbrook. From August 16, 1885, reduce service to 3 times a week, during entire year, being now 7 times a week, from May 1 to November 30.

Route 45,145. Genoa to Wellington. From August 16, 1885, reduce service to twice a week.

NEVADA CATTLE RANGES.

Nine Hundred Thousand Head of Stock in the Indian Territory Must Graze on Some Other Pasture

The Bulletin says: The cattlemen who have been ordered to remove their stock from the Indian territory are now the object of considerable interest to the Central Pacific Railroad. About nine hundred thousand head of stock must be moved to some other pasturage, and the question as to where they shall go is not only an important one but a difficult one to settle. Nearly all the grazing land in that section of the country has been occupied, and there is said to be none nearer than the northern part of Mexico. The Central Pacific, therefore, is desirous of getting the cattlemen to remove to Nevada and Utah, and has issued a circular to them setting forth the advantages of that section of the country. The distance is somewhat further than that to Mexico, but there can be found this way advantages that will more than compensate the disadvantages of a long drive. An effort will be made to inspect Utah and Nevada before deciding upon stock ranges.

It has been discovered that what is on the maps, the southwest corner of the Indian Territory, is debatable land, it being yet unsettled whether it belongs to Texas or to the Territory. The southern boundary as fixed by law is the Red river; but toward the west end of this boundary the river forks. The most southerly fork has been chosen as the boundary, but it is claimed by Texas that the northern fork is the true boundary, and that the territory between the two forks, some 5,000 square miles in extent belongs to her. The land has all been taken, and until the disputed boundary is settled it is not probable that the holders will be required to move under the President's order.

THE STATE UNIVERSITY.

The Gazette remarks:

Our various exchanges note the departure of many young gentlemen and ladies, who are about to enter some one of the many excellent institutions of learning in California. The citizens who have been patronizing these schools should bear in mind that the ground is broken for the State University at Reno, and that it is the purpose of those in charge to have the University open for the reception of pupils at the beginning of the ensuing school year.

It will be the aim of the Regents to make it what its name implies, and if the citizens of Nevada will take a pride in elevating it, as they should, our children can receive a thorough education at home. When the Fall term opens, there should be a fair representation from each county, ready to avail themselves of the advantages offered. Local jealousies and seeming grievances, should be laid aside, and all should aid in making the University one of the State's ornaments; make it demand the patronage and the good will of all lovers of learning; make it the peer of any other institution of the kind on the coast.

What Should Be Done with the Money.

The Times-Review says:

Both the Elko papers favor the setting apart of the $20,000 to be paid by Reno for the State University into a fund for the purpose of maintaining a High School at Elko. In the first place, the persons who subscribed for the purpose of building the University should be reimbursed, and the balance should be proportionately divided among the different school districts in the county. There can be no question in regard to the justice of either proposition. The subscribers were out the amount of money they severally paid in, and with the removal of the institution they should be repaid out of the proceeds of the sale. The entire county was pledged for the payment of the bonds which were issued, and all portions of the county helped to pay them. It is no more than right that the balance of the money should be proportionately divided, for educational purposes, among the different District School Funds of the county. The next Legislature will, however, have to settle the matter.
